RESEARCH

Where BeReal Loses People

15M → 6M

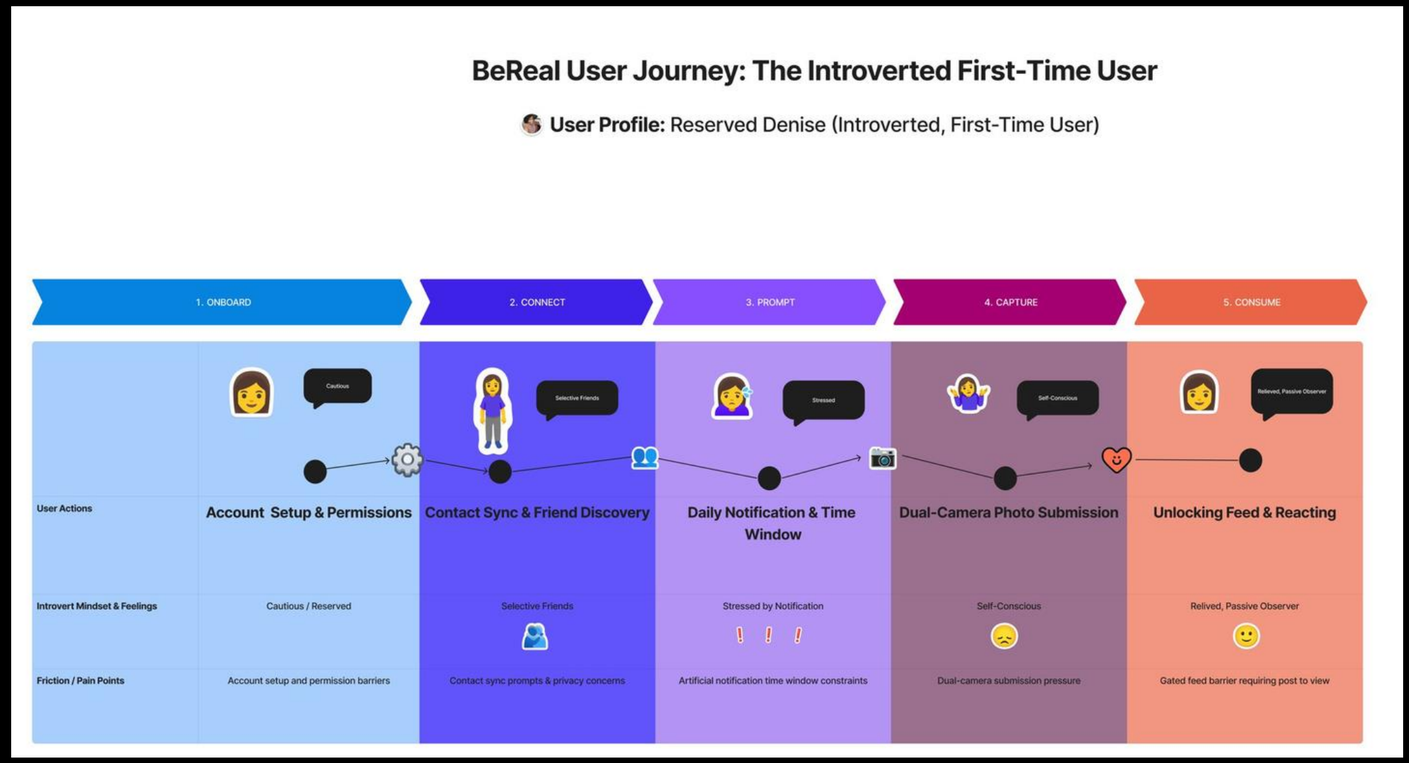

BeReal daily users, October 2022 to spring 2023 (The New York Times)

“I’m in the middle of working… I wasn’t expecting to take a photo right now.”

Denise, introvert persona, at the prompt stage

WHAT IT MEANT

Pressure points (the 2-minute window, the gated feed) push people away. More urgency won’t win them back; a better reason to post will.

User journey map: introverted first-time user (Onboard → Connect → Prompt → Capture → Consume)

THE USER FLOW

Seven Screens, One Habit Loop

The 7-screen happy path from start to finish.

1 Today Screen → 2 Capture Toggle → 3 Board Select → 4 Post Confirm

5 Capsule / Board Detail → 6 Passport & Leaderboard → 7 Settings / Opt-out

↺ loops back to Today Screen the next day, with a fresh theme

First-time vs. repeat:

First-time users see a one-time intro overlay on Today Screen; repeat users land directly on the theme hero — no onboarding friction after day one.

THE PROTOTYPE

A Screen-By-Screen Rundown

Today Screen	Daily theme + reminder bubble + come-back banner
Capture Toggle	Theme Post / Random Post toggle + state demo panel
Board Select	Capsule collage, voting, comments, empty state
Post Confirm	Confirm to post photo to community board or usual post.
Capsule / Board Details	Choose to view capsule collection or see board details.
BeReal Passport	Stamp collection grid + streak cue
Leaderboard	Squad ranking + sponsor banner mockup
Settings / Opt-out	Control settings for name and password. User can opt-out of community board.

EMOTIONAL TONE

In Small Amounts, Calm, Real, Human.

“No one’s posted to this board yet — be the first!”

The empty state best captures BeReal’s tone — it would have been easy to leave this as a dead end or a guilt trip. Instead, it stays warm and invitational, the same register BeReal uses everywhere else.

UI STATES COVERED

Designed For More Than The Happy Path

What happens when things are empty, loading , or go wrong.

Empty

Board Selection / Capsule

“No one’s posted to this board yet — be the first!”

MAU-ORIENTED HOOKS

Invite People Back, Never Pressure Them

Reminder Bubble

“3 friends already posted to Coffee Shop today”

Social curiosity, not an alert

Soft Streak Cue

“You’ve been real 3 days in a row”

No loss framing, no streak-breaking guilt

DESIGN DECISIONS

Key Decisions And Their Trade-offs

DECISION	WHY	TRADE-OFF
Pick a board after the photo	Capture stays instant, exactly like BeReal today	One extra step; testers noticed the taps
Opt-in only	No one is pushed into boards; random posts still work	Smaller reach at launch
Squad-only reactions, no public likes	Avoids performance and vanity metrics	Less viral spread
Hooks that invite, never guilt	No loss framing, no streak-breaking shame	A softer nudge than classic streaks
Monthly boards that close into a capsule	A keepsake, not an endless treadmill	Content resets every month

WHY THIS STILL FEELS LIKE BEREAL

Additive, Not Addictive

Same real photo

No filters, no retakes, no new content requirement , and tagging is a layer on top.

Opt-in only

Random, untagged posting stays fully supported for anyone who ignores boards.

Time-boxed

Boards close at month end and become a keepsake, not an infinite treadmill.

No shame mechanics

Stamps and the leaderboard reward participation, no streak-loss messaging.

PART 3 OF 4

03

User testing

Five people, three tasks, one survey: what users actually did and said.

01 Overview & Research

02 Design

03 User Testing

04 Recommendation & Reflection

USER TESTING

Five people, 40 Minutes, Three Tasks

WHO TOOK PART

1 Daily User
Uses BeReal most days

2 Occasional Users
A few times a month

2 Rare Users
Rarely or never

HOW THE SESSION RAN

1. Warm-up 5 min
   How often people open and post on BeReal today.
2. Prototype Tasks 15 min
   Respond to the 12:00 AM alert and post; find this month's stamps; explore the streak and leaderboard. Participants thought aloud.
3. Debrief 15 min
   Interest, clarity, and whether it feels more or less like BeReal.
4. Survey 5 min
   8 questions: usage, four 1–5 scales, launch yes/maybe/no, two open-ended.

In person · October 2026 · clickable prototype, observer notes and a Google Form

SURVEY RESULTS

4 of 5 Would Open BeReal More Often

4 of 5

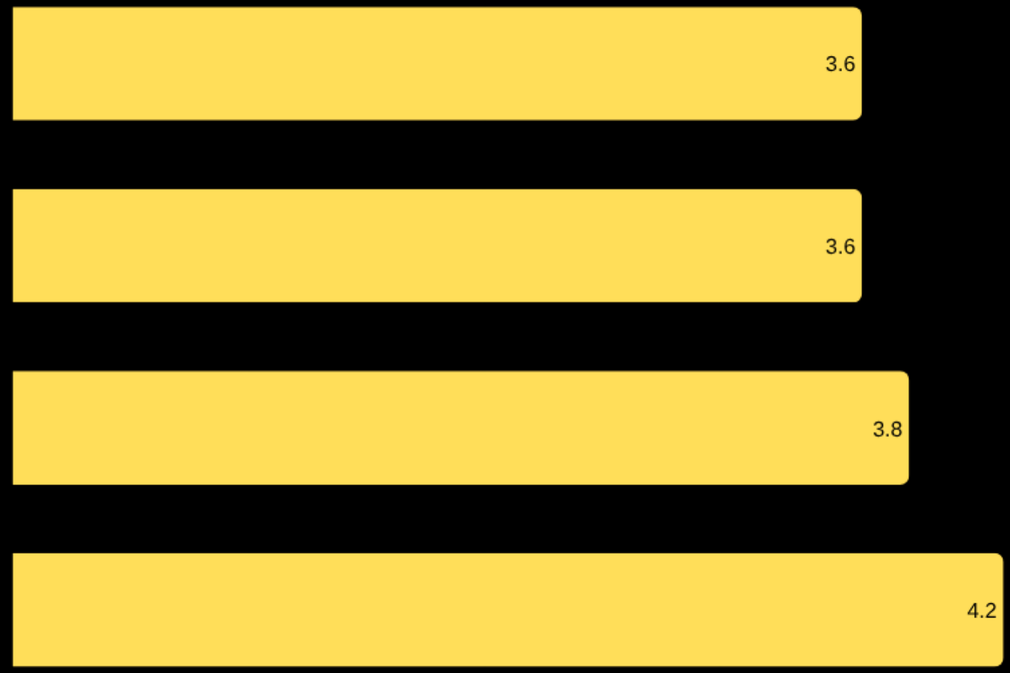

Rated 4 or 5 for understanding, authenticity and opening BeReal more often

4.2 / 5

Hooks felt low-pressure, the highest score; no one rated them below 3

3 · 1 · 1

Yes · Maybe · No to launching the feature

One non-user rated the first three questions 1. Without that response they average 4.25, 4.25 and 4.5.

KEY FINDINGS

What We Learned

1 · MAU SIGNAL

Brings back occasional users

“I'd definitely open the app more often because of this.”

Both occasional users rated “open more often” a 5

2 · USABILITY

Too many taps from capture to post

“There are a few too many button clicks in this flow.”

Raised twice in the session and again in the survey

3 · VALUE

Stamps and the Passport are the draw

“The passport stamp designs themselves look really cool!”

Most-liked: layout, stamps, navigation, community posting

4 · AUTHENTICITY

No pressure, but complexity hurts fit

“It feels less authentic and overly complex.”

Hooks scored 4.2 / 5 for low pressure; one non-user found it complex

PART 4 OF 4

04

Recommendation & Reflection

What BeReal should do next, and what I learned along the way.

01 Overview & Research

02 Design

03 User Testing

04 Recommendation & Reflection

RECOMMENDATION

Refine, Then Retest

PROCEED · REFINE · PIVOT

Refine

Keep the concept. Users valued the stamps, Passport and squad boards, and the hooks added no pressure. Fix the friction before a wider test.

Retest with 7–10 people, including more non-users. Measure taps and time from capture to a stamped post.

1

Cut taps from capture to stamp

Remember the last board used or pick a board right on the compose screen.

Most repeated issue

2

Make SEND vs COMMUNITY BOARD clear

Add a one-line hint the first time someone sees the choice.

“Not sure which one does what”

3

Add a first-use explainer

One screen for people new to boards.

A non-user didn't see the point

4

Keep hooks optional, same tone

They already read as motivating.

Highest survey score (4.2 / 5)

RECOMMENDATIONS

A Staged Rollout, Starting Small

Phase 0

Prototype & Test

Done. Clickable prototype tested with 5 people; 4 of 5 would open BeReal more often.

COMPLETE

Phase 1

Refine & Retest

Fewer taps, clearer post type, first-use explainer. Retest with 7–10 people.

NEXT

Phase 2

MVP

1–2 boards, one friend-group cohort. Measure adoption and DAU/MAU lift.

Phase 3

Full Rollout

4–5 concurrent monthly boards. Passport and leaderboard shipped in full.

Phase 4

Monetization (pilot)

Explore sponsor-branded boards, subject to brand-safety review.

Decision needed

Approve a short refine-and-retest sprint, then a limited MVP with one friend-group cohort and one board to validate the MAU hypothesis before further engineering investment.

SUCCESS METRICS & PRIORITIZATION

What We'll Watch, and Why This Ranks High

Success Metrics

- DAU / MAU ratio (stickiness)
- Daily open rate
- D7 and D30 retention
- % of posts tagged to a board
- Passport / leaderboard visits
- Taps and time from capture to stamped post (new, from testing)

Early Signal From Testing
4 of 5 testers would open BeReal more often. The strongest pull was among occasional users.

RICE Snapshot (indicative)

Reach	High
Impact	Medium-High
Confidence	Medium (5-person test)
Effort	Medium

Directional. A 5-person focus group shows direction, not proof; refine the scoring with Phase 2 MVP data.

REFLECTION

What I learned, and What I'd Do Differently

1

Complexity, not pressure, was the real risk

The hooks scored highest for low pressure (4.2/5). The one non-user's complaint was that it felt "overly complex."

2

Test with the people you want to win

Occasional users loved it; a non-user didn't see the point. Two non-users weren't enough to know why.

3

A working prototype beats a static mock

Clicking through the flow surfaced the extra taps in one session, something slides alone never showed.

NEXT TIME

Recruit 7–10 testers, with more non-users

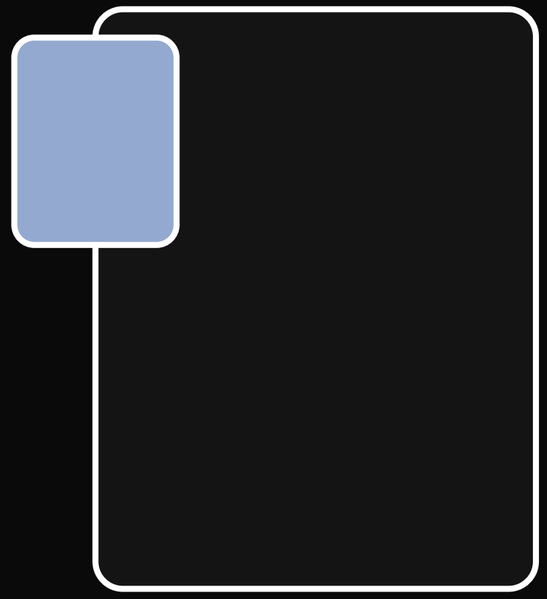

Measure taps and time-on-task during each task

Test the hooks over a full week, not one session

THANK YOU

Be real.
Not polished.
